

EXCELLENCE IN DESIGN ♦ CHICAGO CITY NORTH

YOUR HOME, YOUR STYLE

At Interior Enhancement Group, every decision is based on clients' tastes and desires

Whether a whole-home renovation in Chicago's western suburbs, a downtown condo, or a beachy vacation house on the coast of Florida, Robert Kleinert, president of Interior Enhancement Group (IEG), has one universal mission: to create spaces brimming with bespoke luxury.

"We value craftsmanship over convenience, and we want to help clients find pieces that are meaningful to them," he says.

With three full-time designers collaborating on every project, IEG's unique team approach ensures it's the client—not the designer—whose individuality shines brightest.

"We see ourselves as fiduciaries of the home buildout and design," says Kleinert, whose business background has added to the firm's reputation for reliability and trustworthiness over its 25-year history. "The team has seen it all, and we're able to identify potential hiccups and costly delays along the way. We're always upfront about time and money."

As trusted consultants, IEG advocates for clients at every turn: from reviewing blueprints and coordinating contractors to curating unique fabric selections and creative concepts tailored to our client to building the

Testament to IEG's long-standing success is that clients often come back time and again—for room refreshes, new homes, or that vacation property they've been dreaming about. "Nothing makes me happier than when clients want to bring us back in for another project," Kleinert says.

A portion of the proceeds from every project is donated to local animal shelter Orphans of the Storm, a cause near and dear to Kleinert's heart.
